

Capture Life's Moments Naturally

When you hear the word "portrait" most people think of a posed, static image where everything is controlled from the lighting to the backdrop to the angle of the subject's head and even the amount of smile. While this is the traditional look for these types of photos, they rarely capture the true emotion and personality of the subject and these images certainly don't represent reality.

We do not live our lives in a controlled atmosphere, so it stands to reason that portraits taken in a much less controlled environment will be more representative of true life. These photos can actually capture the emotions and personality of not only the person being photographed but also the background subject matter.

Additionally, shooting on-location provides a truly unique photography experience for everyone... from the parents, to the children and even the photographer. The resulting images reflect the relaxed atmosphere in which the images are captured. The children are allowed to do the fun stuff while the photographer does all of the work.

In our fast-paced world, there are so many occasions that you can call on a photographer to capture a 'snapshot' of life on that special day. Photo opportunities include birthdays, graduations, sporting events, family vacations, dance recitals, social events and other important milestones in every child's life. A professional photographer, using non-traditional photography techniques, can concentrate on the true personality of the children involved in activities that they enjoy. This combination results in images that truly present life in a beautiful light. Plus, when you use a professional photographer, you can capture and print final images in a variety of finishes, giving you almost unlimited options for personalization.
